

Lincolnshire YFC Champion Beef Judge 2012 is Longhorn enthusiast and club member

Just over four years ago Edward Dowler was involved in the purchase of the family's first Longhorn cattle and this began a steep learning curve in the art of good cattle husbandry and what it is that makes a good beef animal. Having attended the society workshop on cattle judging he joined the local YFC and began to look at the cattle he met in a rather more critical way. The next year he entered the Lincolnshire Beef judging competition and this year in only his second year won the Junior Championship 2012. He hopes to utilise his new found status to promote the breed and publicise the advantages of keeping Longhorns.
