Webinar to explain changes to Johne's disease rules 21 June, 7pm

A webinar will be held at 7pm on Monday 21 June to explain upcoming changes to the CHECS rules for testing for Johne's disease.

The rule change, which was announced in April, has raised a number of questions ranging from why the change was needed, to the science behind the decision.

CHECS aims for the webinar, which will include presentations and a panel discussion, to address these and other points, and attendees will have the opportunity to submit their questions to the panel.

The webinar is kindly hosted by the British Cattle Veterinary Association, and will be recorded and uploaded for viewing on the CHECS website after the event. Any question that cannot be covered during the webinar will be responded to afterwards.
